

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF GREAT FLOOD DISASTER

Just one year ago today the greatest flood disaster ever recorded in the annals of Ohio took place.

All will recall the dark days preceding the great flood, when the low-hanging clouds obscured the sunshine and the rain fell in torrents until all streams were forced out of their channels and their murky waters spread over hitherto unknown flood plains, sweeping all before them.

And tens of thousands will vividly recall the days of anxiety—the nerve-shattering uncertainty over the fate of loved ones—of the destruction of great parts of cities and the drowning of hundreds of citizens when the muddy, swirling waters burst their bounds and inundated tens of thousands of homes, forcing the inhabitants to undergo suffering and suspense that drove many into insanity. The stirring scenes of rescue, of succoring the homeless, and of a thousand and one other memories of the flood, come trooping back as vividly as one year ago, and will ever remain unfading.

Washington was one of the cities that escaped great damage, although for a time the flood severed practically all railroad and wire connection, shut off the pumping station, and climbed into a number of residences and factories, and caused almost a complete cessation of business for many days, while hundreds of citizens took part in furnishing relief to less fortunate citizens.

Local citizens were kept posted on outside events by frequent issues of

The Herald, which gave all information that limited wire service would permit, and which carried the intelligence to local citizens that the water supply must be husbanded and warned them against fire dangers owing to lack of water.

The accompanying illustrations show how the city was threatened by the waters of Paint creek a year ago today.

For several days previous to the flood itself there had been a great rainfall, owing to an extraordinary condition of the atmosphere over this part of the United States, and it was the morning of March 25th that this part of Ohio was almost completely severed from the outside world when railroads and wires were carried out. It was the morning of the memorable 25th when the waters overflowed the levees and poured into the heart of Dayton, and when the west side of Columbus was cut off from the east side.

With the first call for help, Washington and Fayette county citizens responded nobly, and carload after carload of provisions were hurried to the suffering citizens of neighboring cities. Never before had local citizens realized the value of the Y. M. C. A. until the call for help was made, and relief headquarters established there.

The dark week of the flood resulted in the loss of tens of millions of dollars worth of property and dealt blows which will require years to repair.

However, with one year gone by, remarkable progress has been made in eliminating evidences of the flood, and preparing for flood prevention in the future. All cities have repaired the ugly scars left until now very little evidence of the great disaster remains.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES FROM DRINK

After lying for a week in a state of comatose, from which he aroused for only brief periods, David Peterson, a teamster employed by the Wilson Engineering and Contracting company, died at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his home on Home avenue. Death, according to physicians, was due to acute alcoholism.

Mr. Peterson was an industrious, sober man, never missing a day from his duties, and not at all addicted to drink. Domestic troubles are said to have caused him to resort to liquor and it is said that he drank nearly two quarts of whiskey last Sunday, which practically deadened his senses, and no effort on the part of physicians could counteract the drug.

Mr. Peterson was born at West Lancaster about 40 years ago, but was for many years a resident of Greene county, coming here from Jamestown, where he lived for some time. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Borden, who with her husband made her home with her parents. Mrs. Hugh Travis, whose home adjoins that of Peterson's, is a sister.

Funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday. Burial will be made at Jamestown, his former home.—Xenia Republican.

35,000 PERSONS IN CITY CLEAN-UP

Edmonton, Alta., March 25.—Thirty-five thousand men and women and pupils in the public and parochial schools, or half of the population of Edmonton, will take part in the annual cleaning and city beautification week, beginning the morning of May 4. C. Lionel Gibbs, chairman of the City Beautiful committee of the Edmonton Industrial association which is composed of 609 active business and professional men, will have full charge of the campaign.

The association will cooperate with the public works department in cleaning several hundred miles of paved and graded streets and lanes, and the ground on vacant properties will be ploughed and seeded to grains grasses, root crops, and flowers and shrubbery adapted to this part of the country. The horticultural society also will assist. The committee having charge of the work will encourage the painting of houses and the repairing of walks and fences wherever necessary and assist residents in all parts of the city in beautifying their places.

TWO BROKEN NECKS FIGURE IN TRIAL

Spokane, Wash., March 25.—Through an unusual coincidence Judge E. H. Sullivan of the Spokane county superior court, who once suffered a broken neck, according to physicians, is hearing the testimony in the damage suit of Mike Lombardi who seeks to recover $50,000 for what he claims is a broken neck and other injuries received when he fell into an excavation made by a construction company in Spokane.

Judge Sullivan confessed that he suffered what was declared by physicians to be a fracture of the bones of the neck while as a student at Willamette university he was wrestling with a roommate many years ago. He was warned at the time that he was likely to die of the injuries at any time, but recovered after a few months.

Judge Sullivan is inclined to believe that his broken neck was badly sprained instead of broken, although his physicians were confident that a fracture had resulted in the cervical vertebrae.

Organization Committee Has Completed Its Work.

Washington, March 25.—The organization committee of the federal reserve system has practically completed its work. The committee, which consists of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of Agriculture Houston and Comptroller of the Currency Williams, probably will announce in a few days the boundaries of the federal reserve districts and the cities in which are to be located reserve banks. The committee has decided to name 12 federal reserve districts, which is the highest number it may designate under the Glass-Owen bill.

The tentative list of reserve cities are Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington or Richmond, Va., Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Atlanta or New Orleans, Dallas or Houston, Tex., and Minneapolis.

The committee, it is expected, will call upon President Wilson this week and lay before him the results of their deliberations. The president some time ago let it be known that he expected to be consulted by the committee before the reserve districts were announced.

CAUSE OF MEAT SHORTAGE.

Herbert Quick, editor of Farm and Freestate, comments in the current issue of that publication on the report of the Department of Agriculture that the country is 18,000,000 meat animals short. That is, allowing for increase in population, we are short of sheep, cattle, and swine to that enormous number as compared to 1910. For each hundred people in the nation it would take nine beef cattle, three hogs, and seven sheep to give us as many as we had four years ago. This decrease is dramatic and almost astounding. Mr. Quick goes on to say:

"The chief reason lies in the fact that the farms of the nation are going into the hands of tenants under a lease system which forbids the growing of sheep and cattle, and renders it more profitable to the farmers to skin off as much as possible in the year or so of tenancy, sell it and get the money. Note the fact that the great shortage is in cattle. The cattle business requires long tenancy and years for the turn of the money invested. The Department speaks of the loss in hogs by cholera; but in spite of this, in hogs, which the tenant farmer can grow more successfully, the shortage is only a third as much in numbers as in cattle, and probably not a twentieth as much in meat. Give the American farmer a land system which will make cattlegrowing profitable and he will grow cattle. To appeal to him to grow cattle is useless while the tenant system makes cattle-growing for millions positively out of the question."

A Woman's Frenzied Act

The entire French nation has been plunged into turmoil over the killing of Editor Calmette by Mme. Caillaux.

The Editor of Figaro was shot down like a dog by the infuriated French woman, who was driven to desperation by the personal attack which the editor of the great French newspaper was publishing in the columns of his paper against her husband and herself.

Sensitive and high strung, the French woman, although her pride was sorely wounded by the personal attacks against her husband for whose honesty, she asserts, she always held the highest admiration, patiently endured all until the editor of Figaro began to publish broadcast the personal letters which had passed between her husband and herself, prior to their marriage.

It was then that something we call reason or self-control, snapped and from that time on until the fatal shots were fired into the body of the editor, it was only a question of time and opportunity until the frenzy of the woman would claim its victim.

Taking the life of a human being is an awful thing. It is questionable with many whether it is ever, under any circumstances, justified in the eyes of God. Under certain conditions it is murder under man-made laws and punishable by the visitation of the most severe penalties which civilized society can inflict.

Killing a human being should never be encouraged and condonation for such an act if it comes at all, must come from other than human sources.

But there are crimes, awful as murder is, which are worse, and one of them is the cowardly assassination of a woman's fair name by the publisher of a newspaper.

Too often newspapers fall into the control of men entirely lacking in true moral conception and all too often these creatures in human form seek to make of newspapers the means by which they can ruin the reputation of men and women.

In such instances the law furnishes absolutely no means of prevention and only a flimsy makeshift of a remedy for the wrong done after the cowardly act is committed.

How the French courts will dispose of the case against Mme. Caillaux, the helpless victim of an unprincipled editor's poisonous pen, remains to be seen. Whether the French law and the French courts will punish her as one guilty of a crime against society or set her free as one who has done no wrong against man's laws, can not be known until the conclusion of her trial.

Human beings all over the world, however, cannot fail to feel a deep sympathy for the refined woman who, goaded to insanity by the cowardly attacks made upon her and which she was helpless to avert, and suffering from wounds which the laws of France were powerless to relieve, slew the man who so unjustly attacked her.

The time has come everywhere when newspaper editors must be taught, by some means or other, if murder on that account is to stop, that they are not free to wantonly rob men and women of their most priceless possession, their good name, and to ruthlessly destroy that which is as dear as life itself.

Men Who Enlist as Soldiers Should Be Given Instruction In Trades

By HENRY H. DOAN, Major Medical Corps National Guard of Pennsylvania

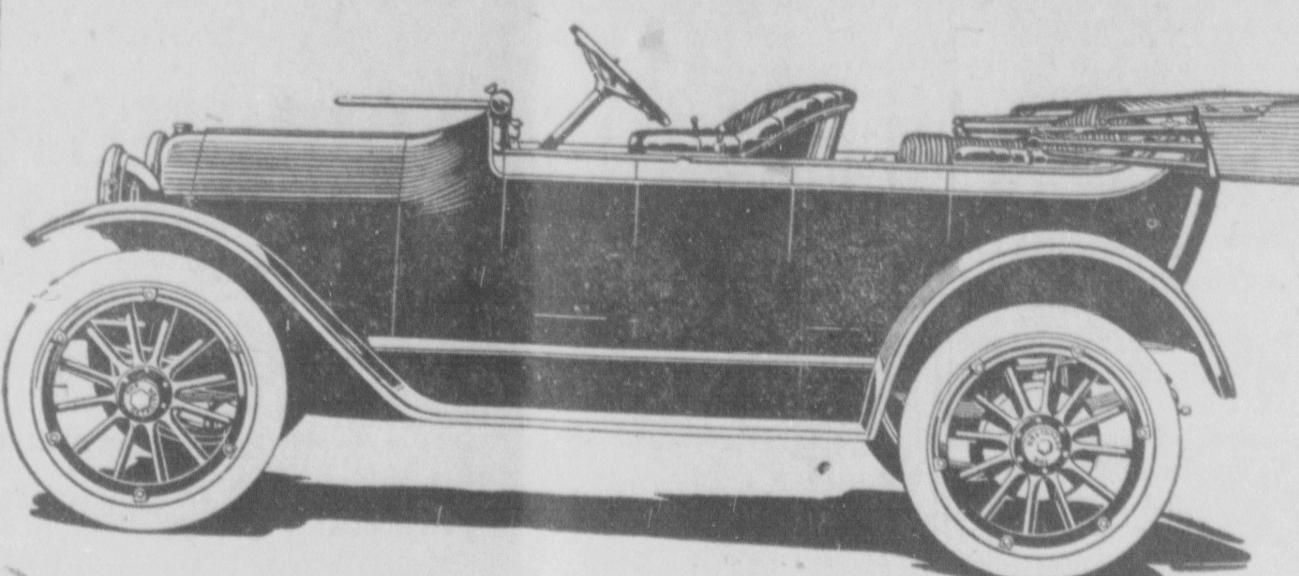

FROM an economic point of view a man is but POORLY FITTED TO TAKE UP THE BURDEN OF LIFE after serving one or more enlistments in the cavalry or infantry. His record as a soldier may have been excellent, but there are but few things to which he may turn his hand in civil life. The demand for unskilled labor is much less than the supply.

I FEEL ASSURED THAT IF THE MEN WERE GIVEN INSTRUCTION IN THE TRADES MUCH OF THE PREJUDICE AGAINST THE SERVICE WOULD SOON BE FORGOTTEN. PARENTS WOULD BE ANXIOUS THAT THEIR SONS SHOULD ENLIST.

This instruction need interfere in no way with the duties incident to military work. An hour or two during the morning or afternoon under a competent instructor would make the average man a FAIRLY EFFICIENT MECHANIC by the time his enlistment would expire. Meanwhile he would have been kept out of all varieties of mischief, for while in garrison he has considerable idle time on his hands.

ALMOST ALL YOUNG AMERICANS TAKE NATURALLY TO THE DIER BUSINESS FROM THE EARLIEST CHILDHOOD, FOR THERE IS SOMETHING PECULIARLY ATTRACTIVE ABOUT MILITARY LIFE COMMON TO ALL MEN WHO HAVE RED BLOOD IN THEIR VEINS, AND I AM OF THE OPINION THAT THE OPPORTUNITY OF LEARNING A TRADE AND AT THE SAME TIME OF BEING A SOLDIER WOULD APPEAL TO A LARGE NUMBER OF YOUTHS.

Detroiter

"Makes Life Worth Living."

New--Streamline--Bullnose--32 h. p.----A Conquering Four

Three years ago, when the Detroiter was announced, almost anything on four wheels could be sold—and some of them were mighty lame ducks. Four men, all in responsible positions in the automobile business, realized the situation. They saw cars with weak axles, noisy motors, undersized pinions and oversized prices, finding ready sales. These men said, "There will be a revolution when people get car-wise. In the meantime, we will build a car that will correct these evils, and that sells on an honestly narrow margin of profit. We will build that car and wait."

They did, and called it the Detroiter. Rather quietly they established conservative dealer relations at over 600 points. They worked out a system of production economy that made this car the lowest in over-head cost in America, barring none.

Today the firm has never borrowed a penny; has no stockholders clamoring for dividends on watered stock; has no directorate at the beck and call of Wall Street. But has a wonderful record of sales.

In the boom days of the automobile business their method looked old-fashioned to many. But note these facts: (1) As a result of this policy, the Detroiter Company sells automobiles at a smaller expense than practically any other company. (2) It keeps no traveling mechanics and no traveling sales managers on the road, drumming up dealers. (3) It holds its sales force intact from year to year. (4) Its repair business is smaller in proportion to sales than that of any other firm, averaging $3.81 per car per year.

The makers have put into practice another theory—that people who buy automobiles are tired of windy claims and relish intelligent analysis. Accordingly, the Detroiter advertising has consistently pointed out certain mechanical superiority's of the car. It has stated and proved that the Detroiter is the only popular priced automobile in America with a full floating rear axle, long stroke motor, platform rear spring and expensive, power-conserving ball bearings throughout. Nowadays, people are becoming familiar with these terms. They are finding out that the full floating axles of this type can withstand 3,000 pounds over-load and house a pinion that will never strip; that ball bearings last longer and multiply horse power; that the platform spring alone needs no shock absorbers; that all these features combine to produce a car of light weight that reduces upkeep to the minimum, making possible 20 to 25 miles to a gallon of fuel, and 100 miles to the quart of lubricating oil.

Facts and not claims must win in the long run. These are the facts about the Detroiter—some of the reasons why it is a superlatively good car for you to own.

Streamline — Bullnose — 32 horsepower — the 1914 Detroiter challenges comparison in appearance and quality with even the most expensive makes of Fours. There is not an ungainly angle in it; graceful as a bird's wing, the crowned-fenders melt away the angularity of guards. With the added horsepower of its expensive ball bearings, the motor is indomitable. For five hundred dollars more one buys not a whit better construction—more honest material, more sterling workmanship.

WASHINGTON AVENUE PAVING CASE DECIDED

Judge Curtain Decides the Famous Paving Case in Favor of the City.

HOLDS ACTION OF COUNCIL IS LEGAL

Case in Which Interest Has Been Unusually Great, was Test of Authority of City Officials in Paving Streets Under Assessment Plan—Improvement Can Now Be Made Unless Case Goes Up to Higher Court and Decision of Judge Curtain is Reversed.

Judge Clarence Curtain, who recently occupied the local Common Pleas bench in the trial of R. W. Huston and others against the City of Washington and others, late Tuesday afternoon, handed down his decision, finding for the defendants, holding that the paving of Washington avenue can be made in accordance with the action of the City Council on May 5, 1913.

For months the result of the Washington avenue case has been awaited with no little interest by citizens all over the city, as it virtually decided the question as to whether or not more paving of the main streets would be attempted in this city, whether it would be useless to launch further paving resolutions if injunction suits would end them.

The Washington avenue paving case, as it became familiarly known, had its start many months ago, when a petition was filed with the City Council asking for the improvement of Washington avenue by paving with brick.

Later, when further investigation was made by citizens on that avenue, a remonstrance was filed with the

IS CHARGED WITH ROBBING POSTOFFICE

John Gibbs, colored, is held in the Chillicothe jail on a charge of burglarizing the Roxobel postoffice July 3, 1913.

The man was arrested for the crime soon after the robbery occurred, but was released for lack of evidence.

Since his first arrest he, evidently thinking that the affair had been dropped, told a number of friends how the robbery was planned and executed by himself and others, with the result that he is now awaiting trial for a crime which may send him to the penitentiary for a number of years.

John Hawkins, one of the men implicated in the crime, died some time ago.

Within a few days Gibbs will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner A. P. Minshall, of Chillicothe.

City Council, and a number of the names were withdrawn from the petition.

However, the City Council continued action upon the project of paving the street, and on May 5th, 1913, passed a resolution for improving the street under the assessment plan, the improvement to consist of paving the thoroughfare with brick, making the street 28 feet wide, and paving it from the intersection of Court street to the intersection of Elm street, a distance of several squares.

Later the plans and specifications were ordered prepared, and Service Director Mark was authorized to secure bids on the job.

When the petition was filed to prevent the improvement being made, an injunction was asked and was granted, restraining further action toward making the improvement until final hearing of the case. The suit was filed on the 26th day of last July, and the case has since been pending in the Common Pleas court.

In his decision, Judge Curtain held that the City Council has the power to make the improvement, and that no illegality on the part of Council had resulted that would affect the intention of Council; that the action of Council in declaring the improvement was necessary was virtually final, and that the improvement on the street in 1889 could not be construed as affecting the present improvement so long as the grade established was not materially changed.

Unless the case is carried to the Court of Appeals, the improvement can be made as originally planned, it is declared. The case establishes the rights of Council in regard to improvements by the assessment plan, unless a higher court reverses the lower.

John Logan and H. H. Sanderson represented the plaintiffs, and ex-Solicitor Harry M. Rankin and Solicitor Pope Gregg represented the defendants in the case.

The remains will be taken to the home of Mr. Alpheus Combs, in Frankfort, Wednesday morning and the funeral will be held Thursday.

Three aunts, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Roseboom and Mrs. E. Robinette, go to Frankfort to attend the funeral.

In Social Circles

beautiful in its artistic simplicity and reflecting the individuality of the bride in every detail, was the wedding of Miss Mina Rowe and Mr. Martin Grove Morris, of Bloomingburg, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Rowe, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Features of particular interest attached to the marriage. Both young people belong to well-known and widely connected families and Miss Rowe's affiliation with the High school of our city as Domestic Science teacher has brought reciprocal interest from a broader circle than that of mere social acquaintance.

One would go far to see a lovelier bride than this only daughter, an unusually gifted girl, unspoiled by her talents, and whose charm is acclaimed beyond question. Graduating with honors from the Ohio State university, where she was a great favorite and identified with all college social activities, Miss Rowe has since proved her admirable fitness for the position of Domestic Science and Latin teacher, and yet found time for outside literary work, social life and a summer's travel in Europe.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. W. W. Morris, a retired farmer of Bloomingburg, and it was while attending the local High school that there was begun the boy and girl romance which had its culmination in last night's nuptial vows.

Mr. Morris will be remembered as the star half-back of the famous 1908 football team, and later figured prominently in Miami university athletics, and was a member of the Miami Glee club. He is an all-round good fellow, popular with a host of friends, and one of the progressive young farmers of Paint township.

The wedding was distinctive in its perfect informality as well as its charming appointments.

While the guests gathered, Mrs. Samuel Morris, of Wooster, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, played a brilliant concert program and followed it with soft strains during the ceremony. The music was a delightful feature of the wedding, Mrs. Morris being a finished musician of great talent. She graduated under Leschetzky in Vienna after studying for some time in Berlin.

Surrounded by spring time blossoms, the young couple stood with Dr. and Mrs. Rowe to receive the guests as they arrived. As the clock struck eight and the wedding music came from the piano they took their places beneath garlands of green, pendant from the wide archway connecting the parlor and hall, where Rev. Frederick E. Ross, of Grace M. E. church, awaited them.

The minister used the Methodist Episcopalian ritual ceremony, impressive and beautiful.

Ruth Tanquary, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Tanquary, all in white, bore the ring.

The bride looked very girlish and sweet in her bridal gown of white crepe de chine, with accordion plaited tunic, square cut train and rose pointe lace, adorning the bodice. A slim tulle veil was most becomingly fitted to her dark hair with a band of pearls and she carried an exquisite shower bouquet of Bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Rowe was charming in a Paris gown of brocaded crepe, Copenhagen blue, with garniture of white lace and silver net. Mrs. Morris, who is a perfect blonde, wore pale blue charmeuse, with over-draping of shadow lace.

Grouped around the bride and bridegroom for the ceremony were

Mr. Oscar Vallery, of Derby, is a business visitor in town today.

Mrs. Ed Fite was called to Good Hope Wednesday morning by the serious illness of her aunt, Mrs. Jackson Hadens.

Mrs. Arvilla Rowe Baxter, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ellis to attend the Morris-Rowe wedding last night, returned to Cincinnati Wednesday morning. Mrs. Rowe's European party of last summer included both last night's bride and Miss Eva Logan, of Louisville, Ky., who was here to attend the wedding. Mrs. Ella Courts accompanies Mrs. Rowe back to Cincinnati for a week's stay at the Sinton hotel.

Two resignations from active membership were received, Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Tuttle, the latter wished to be on the associate list. This left vacancies and Mrs. Fullerton and Miss Jean Howat were placed on the active list.

The list of members for the five departments for next year was then given. Discussion of topics and a ballot resulted in the three subjects, "Present Day Problems," "China" and the "Poet Browning."

A pretty piano solo was played by Marian Whelpley. A beautiful reading, "The Last Word," by Dr. Van Dyke, was admirably given by Mrs. L. E. Bowman.

Miss Flora Allen developed points of interest in the subject, "Superstition of Salt".

REBELS MOVING SLOWLY

Pounding Fortifications Enclosing the City of Torreon.

MEET DESPERATE RESISTANCE

One After Another of the Federal Commands In the Outer Entrenchments Driven In and Battery After Battery Silenced by Villa's Men. Graphic Story of the Assault on the Federal Stronghold.

Gomez Palacio, Mexico, March 25.—Driving the rebels back of their carefully prepared fortifications, the rebel army of Pancho Villa closed the semi-circle around Torreon. Following the attack from the east, northeast and southeast by the division commanded by General Benavides, the rebels slowly but surely made headway toward the town, driving in one after another of the federal commands in the outer fortifications and silencing battery after battery of Huerta guns. The rebels also succeeded in silencing some of the federal guns commanding the approach to the city along the Mexican Central railroad from Gomez Palacio.

Two of the federal curates in Torreon fell into the hands of the rebels. Colonel Trevino of the staff of General E. A. Benavides commanded the successful band of rebels who made the capture.

Closing in on the stronghold Monday, the rebels took Lerdo, a manufacturing town three miles from Torreon, without a fight, and the next day occupied Gomez Palacio after a furious battle that lasted for hours. Monday evening, Matamoras, on the southeast of Torreon, a station on the railroad leading to Saltillo, also fell into the hands of the rebels. This cut off federal communication from every direction except the south and placed rebels on every side of the town except the south, southwest and west. Mountains protect the city from the west and southwest. Whether the reinforcements sent from Mexico City have arrived from the south is not known by the attacking rebels. The railroad line is open to Mexico City, however, so far as is known.

THE STRIKERS ARE ORDERLY

Pittsburgh, March 25.—Conditions on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad, where a strike of train and switching crews has been in progress for three days, have improved but little, despite the efforts of the officials to make up their crews with men imported from other cities. There was a report in circulation among railroad men here that the constabulary has been ordered to the principal points affected by the strike, but this is denied. A car shortage caused by the strike caused several mines in the Monongahela district to close down. The strikers are orderly and there has been no violence so far.

FIGHT DISEASE

Youngstown, O., March 25.—The Carnegie Steel company issued orders that every one of its 10,000 employees in the mills here and in Greenville, Pa., should submit to a medical examination to discover possible traces of trachoma, which has appeared among the workers in the mills here and against the spread of which it is desired to safeguard.

LABORERS CLASH

Portsmouth, O., March 25.—First disorders since the big shoe strike began here occurred when Kentuckians on the way home from the Selby factory were attacked by strikers and a battle with bricks as weapons resulted. Other minor clashes occurred and extra guards were sworn in to protect manufacturers' property. Several arrests were made.

Gomez Palacio was taken by command under Pancho Villa himself. Lerdo fell into the hands of Tomas Urbino's command, advancing from the vicinity of Mapimi. Matamoras fell into the hands of a rebel brigade sent south from Tlahualillo by rail, which is not impeded. The troops at Matamoras fell toward Torreon when the rebels neared the place. Then the rebels turned northwest into Torreon along this railroad. Urbino was unable to accompany his command, as he is wounded or ill in Mapimi.

Fighting Was Furious.

Immediately the rebel assault on Torreon opened from the east and northeast, the rebel artillery and cavalry advanced across the cotton fields that cover the level plain to the southeast, east and northeast of Torreon. During the night the rebels had forded the river northeast of Torreon without much difficulty. General Eugenio Benavides, recently in command at Juarez, led the attack from that side. Pancho Villa himself remained in Gomez Palacio, from which the rebel artillery shelled the federal batteries guarding the pass through which the rebels fought their way along the Mexican Central.

The fighting at Gomez Palacio was furious and the dead and wounded will number hundreds, it is believed. The rebels sent a trainload of the more seriously wounded back to Chihuahua.

The rebels used the curate in Gomez Palacio, the Juan Brittingham soap factory and other available buildings for fortifications, and even after the rebels, by a series of brilliant charges in which many of the men fell dead or wounded, had gained the city, they had to fight for several hours. Often the fighting was very close and men fell by the dozens on both sides. At one time the rebels made a feint to withdraw and then returned against the rebels after many of them had reached the curate.

The federal dead is reported as 700. In killed, wounded and prisoners the rebels lost 1,500. The rebel loss is heavy, but believed to be less than that of the enemy. The rebel army consisted of 12,000 men and outnumbered the federals.

ACTION CAUSES DOUBT

Resignation of Japanese Cabinet Not Relished By Uncle Sam.

AN INOPPORTUNE OCCURRENCE

New Government May Feel Itself Obligated to Renew Pressure On the United States For Settlement of the California Controversy — Downfall of the Ministry Headed by Premier Yamamoto.

Washington, March 25.—News of the resignation of the Japanese cabinet, headed by Premier Yamamoto, was received here with some uneasiness.

A change of government in Japan at this time is regarded as very undesirable from the viewpoint of the United States because of the opposition made out of the failure of the late ministry to press more vigorously the California controversy.

The resignation of the Japanese cabinet, while technically due to the failure of the parliament to pass the naval budget, really has its causes in matters of much greater significance. The downfall of the Katsura government a year ago was followed by the declaration of Yamamoto that the Japanese intended to reduce power of the aristocracy in the government and weaken the holds of groups of great families upon the army, navy and bureaus of the administration.

The tide of opposition against the Yamamoto ministry set in almost simultaneously with the inception of the controversy between the United States and Japan over the passage of the alien land laws in California. The failure of Japan, after long negotiations, to obtain any satisfaction from the United States last fall, gave new impetus to the opposition. Then came the so-called naval scandal, in which a number of high officers of the navy were accused of receiving bribes or commissions from foreign firms, principally German, engaged in government contracts. This provided just the issue the opposition was seeking, and in recent weeks the battle has been fought out on this line rather than on the basis of the California controversy.

It is now feared the new government, which of course will represent more or less the opposition stirred up by agitation over the California controversy, will feel itself obliged to renew pressure on the United States for settlement. As the matter stands both sides are remaining on their original ground in the controversy, and there is not now the slightest prospect of the United States doing anything for Japan.

BAR CHILDREN FROM SALOONS

Cleveland, O., March 25.—Liquor license commissioners ruled that applicants for transfer of saloon licenses hereafter must promise to remove all "family entrance" signs from their doorways before their applications will be granted. "Family entrances" give rise to law violations, because they are frequently used by minors," said Archie Kennel, secretary to the commission.

INHALED GAS

Cincinnati, O., March 25.—The flameless gas heater claimed another victim in the person of Mrs. Minnie Bargill, 26. She was found dead in the bathtub at the home of her sister, where she was visiting. The gas water heater in the bathroom was burning briskly when the body was found and there was no pipe to carry off the poisonous fumes.

TANGO IN BAD

Akron, O., March 25.—The tango has brought a family here into divorce court. Mrs. Ada Ellnor Johnson sued for a separation from Harry E. Johnson. Among her allegations is one that at a dance which she attended, her husband tangoed for an hour with a married woman. Mrs. Johnson charges his actions were disgraceful.

Try Mrs. Austin's Bag Pancake, sure to please you, all grocers.

MISS MARGARET SINGS FOR BLIND

Washington, March 25.—Miss Margaret Wilson, eldest daughter of the president, sang for the blind people in the reading room for the blind in the Library of Congress. She is especially interested in the industrial work of the blind. She gave a program of French, German, Italian and English songs, accompanied by Miss Julia Higgins at the piano.

ARE RECONCILED

Cincinnati, O., March 25.—Declaring that she would feel that she is a murderer, Mrs. Mabel Lang Crawford became reconciled to her husband, Walter Crawford, who is near death as the result of taking poison here. Crawford left a note previous to taking the poison in which he stated he could not live without his wife, who had left him several weeks ago.

3-YEAR-OLD CHILD SHOOTS SISTER

Akron, O., March 25.—James, 3, son of Patrick J. Hutchinson, former sheriff of Medina county, accidentally shot and killed his sister Irene, also aged 3, with a revolver at their home here. The bullet passed through the girl's heart. She died in her father's arms.

REOPEN ANTI-TRUST HEARING

Washington, March 25.—The house committee on judiciary, at the suggestion of Representative McCoy of New Jersey, voted to reopen its hearings on the pending anti-trust bills. The purpose of the resumption is in order to admit the testimony of William H. Ingersoll of New York, of dollar-watch fame. Mr. Ingersoll will address the committee on the subject of price-fixing. Tomorrow has been set for the hearing.

FARMER SUICIDES

East Liverpool, O., March 25.—Driving his wife out of the house and sending his children to the barn, Jesse Ammon, 50, farmer, of Lynchburg, northwest of here, committed suicide by shooting himself through the right temple. Domestic troubles are believed to have prompted the act.

ALFALFA PIONEER

Ravenna, O., March 25.—Randall Whittelsey, 72, wealthy Atwater farmer and stockman, died on the farm where he was born and on which he spent all of his life. The deceased introduced the culture of alfalfa in that section and was a brother of the late Senator Whittelsey.

FIGHTS LOW FARE

Toledo, O., March 25.—The Toledo Railway and Light company appealed to the United States district court to avoid obedience to the city ordinance which would compel it to give 3-cent fares all day after Friday.

FRUITLESS PARLEYING

Leaders of Miners Say Strike Is Not Imminent.

Chicago, March 25.—Final refusal of the United Mine Workers of America to accept the terms offered by the bituminous coal mine owners of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois brought to an end here the joint wage scale conference of the men and employers.

Although the present wage agreement expires April 1 and there is no understanding at present under which the men have agreed to continue work, union leaders said that a strike is not imminent.

The policy committee of the United Mine Workers has been summoned to meet here and the men's leaders announced that they expected it to decide upon a line of action that would prevent a labor crisis in the mines. The operators stated that the next proposition must come from the miners.

"This does not necessarily mean a strike," said William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers. "The miners' representatives have worked hard in the interest of peace. We will certainly use our best endeavors to outline a policy that will mean continuation of work. Only small difference separated us from the operators at our last meeting."

At the final session the miners definitely rejected the operators' terms, which were to continue under the same terms as are now in force. The meeting then adjourned finally.

THOUGHT TO BE IMPREGNABLE

Mexico City, March 25.—There is no news from Torreon, as all the wires have been cut, but the government denied that there is any reason for alarm over that place, which it is claimed is impregnable. Secretary of the Interior Alcozer says the government is preparing to move 3,000 troops to the north.

IMPORT BEATEN

Canton, O., March 25.—W. A. Vallins of Chicago, a strikebreaker, brought here to help end the trouble between molders and several Canton firms has a sore head as a result of having been set upon by several men. In addition to his personal injuries, Vallins was called on to face a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

ENGLISH CABINET DOOMED

Believe British Government Can Not Outride Tempest.

ASQUITH'S FOLLOWERS REBEL

Whole Extremist Section of Parliament Infuriated at What is Regarded as the Government's Surrender to the King and the Army—Secretary of War Seely Reported to Have Resigned.

London, March 25.—The crisis over the mobilization of the army in Ulster has developed into a ministerial one. Nothing is talked of at the political clubs or in political circles but the question, "Will the government outride the tempest?" The answer which was confidently given by many experienced observers is that the cabinet is doomed.

It is practically certain that Colonel E. J. B. Seely, the secretary of war, has resigned, although his resignation has not yet been accepted.

There is unquestionably a serious revolt among Premier Asquith's parliamentary followers. The whole of the extremist section, including Lloyd George, Radicals, the Laborites and the Socialists, is infuriated at what they regard as the government's surrender to the king and the army. Officers' privilege is declared to have been set up against the democracy, and the democracy is foaming with rage.

The excitement in the lobbies of the house of commons has been unprecedented in years. The revolters exchanged among themselves criticisms of Premier Asquith and the moderate section of the cabinet in a manner which showed that allegiance to the premier is ended unless the suspicion of the dissidents is disproved in parliament.

John Redmond, the leader of the Irish Nationalist party, declared that the question is whether the atmosphere of the aristocratic London drawing rooms or the will of the majority of the people should prevail.

King George Rapped.

The house of commons witnessed a telling demonstration of how the land lies. It showed where not only the Irish home rulers and Laborites, who made Premier Asquith's majority and held the balance of power in the house, stand, but that many Liberals are opposed to what, from their present information, they consider a surrender to a military oligarchy.

The army appropriation bill was under discussion. The Laborite, John Ward, who was a dock laborer and at one time a private in the army, seconded a motion for reduction. He said that the Conservatives, by approving the rebellion of the officers, had "started to smash the British army." The house, he said, had to decide whether it is going to maintain the discipline of the army as a neutral force, or whether the parliament elected by the people should

SLIP-SHOD HABITS OF THE DICTATOR HUERTA

Is Decidedly Self-Willed and Makes All Officials Observe His Whims—Likes to Discuss Astronomy and Holds Cabinet Meetings Whenever He Wills—Is a Bugbear to Family And Worries Not of the Future—Character Sketches of Man Who is Very Much in the Public Eye.

By Associated Press

Mexico City, March 25.—After a year in office General Huerta appears in better health than when he undertook the Presidency. The difficulties he has encountered have left no stamp upon his features. Six months ago some of his friends and most of his enemies predicted early physical collapse and there were some who would not have been surprised had his intellect suffered as the result of the enormous odds.

"Take things as they come" seems to have been the life-long philosophy of Huerta, tempered always, however, with the belief that all things come to him who waits, especially to him who waits for and seizes the big opportunities. Worrying has never been one of Huerta's failings. Nor is he a creature of routine. Regularity does not characterize his methods. He does his work when and where it suits his convenience and all members of his official family, the public, and his private family as well, have to yield.

Long ago he tired of the regular cabinet meetings and announced that conferences with his ministers would take place whenever he summoned them, and there would be no place regarded as sacred to that ceremony. And so it has come about that questions of the greatest import are as likely to be discussed in his private home as in the National Palace and not at all infrequently he sends word to his ministers suddenly that he would like to meet them that very morning in the woods about Chapultepec castle.

To the famous and ancient park in which the castle is located he drives in his automobile. His ministers also arriving in their cars, wonder in just what part the president is going to see them. Their chauffeurs or aides sight the presidential car ahead on one of the many drives and there begins a chase which may come to an end beneath one of the great shade trees, or beside the lake. Ministers and president alight, sit on the benches or walk along one of the interesting footpaths and there talk of affairs which perhaps are of international importance. Back of all is the president's whim. He may be late. The ministers wait. He may have altered his mind regarding affairs of state and the ministers are told to meet him later in the day or night at his home.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy lately was the innocent cause of forcing the ministers to waste what doubtless was valuable time. They were walking with the president in the Chapultepec grounds when the American charge d'affairs drove by. The president recognizing his car, and remembering that there was something that he wanted to talk to the American representative about, signalled him to stop. O'Shaughnessy alighted, joined the official group and was preparing to continue his drive when the president asked him to get into his car with him. The two drove off together, leaving Ministers Blanquet, Alcocer and other councillors of the president staring after the car. Half an hour later Huerta set O'Shaughnessy down near his own car and resumed the interrupted cabinet meeting.

It is not uncommon for the president to summon his ministers to a meeting during the middle of the night and cabinet meetings, or what would pass for cabinet meetings, have taken place in cafes.

Huerta does not indulge in physical exercise as a means of recreation. He derives his recreation in talking astronomy with any one who can interest him in the subject—and the man who does must be an expert—or in dining and visiting with his intimate friends. The time he retires appears a matter of indifference, as does his arising in the morning. Usually he is up early. The lightest kind of breakfast, coffee and rolls, he gets as soon as he is awake. A little work, if he thinks of anything to do, and then almost every morning a walk up and down on the sidewalk in front of his house in the district known as San Rafael. After that more breakfast and then a lot of work. He may go to the Chapultepec woods or to the National Palace but it is just as likely he will do his morning's work at his home, summoning to him there all who may have business with him. Without much routine, and with executive mastery shoving all he can onto his subordinates, he ploughs through the day's work until seven or eight o'clock when he is ready for dinner.

He does his work when and where it suits his convenience and all members of his official family, the public, and his private family as well, have to yield.

PICKAWAY COUNTY HAS VISIONS OF OIL GUSHERS

While drilling for water on the L. oil was found.

A. Jones farm, a few miles east of Waterloo, Monday, drillers struck a fair grade of oil at a depth of 300 feet, and the oil followed the drill to the surface and has since been overflowing the top of the casing.

The "strike" has created a great deal of excitement in the neighborhood, and people for many miles are flocking to the scene.

However, owing to the shallowness of the well, it is believed that the prospects for oil in the above neighborhood are very poor, unless the oil is being forced up through a small fissure from a pool 1000 or 1500 feet below the point where the

A short time ago natural gas was discovered in another township in Pickaway county, and both the gas and oil territory will be thoroughly tested out.

It is pointed out that a few years ago a number of wells were sunk in Circleville and plugged, without the result being made public. Circleville citizens are hoping that the wells may be reopened, and an oil and gas boom started for Circleville and surrounding territory.

Some oil men state that there is very little likelihood of oil or gas existing in paying quantities near Circleville, and the present excitement may quickly blow over.

DEATHS

FEWELL.

Mary Ann Fewell, aged 70 years, died Tuesday 6:45 p.m., at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Murphy, on the Wilmington pike. Funeral services will be held Thursday 1:00 p.m. at M. P. church in Jeffersonville. Interment in Jeffersonville cemetery.

ANDERS.

Mr. Riley Anders, a farmer, residing on the Leesburg pike, ten miles from Washington, died Wednesday, after a lingering illness. He leaves a wife and several children.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Anders have friends and relatives in this city, who will regret to learn of Mr. Anders' death.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

INJURES FINGER

A day or two ago, Chas. Groff, a well known blacksmith of Bloomingburg, while in the act of moving a cuspidor, had one finger slit to the bone nearly the entire length of the finger, when the cuspidor slipped from his hands and fell, a sharp corner catching his finger.

R. AND S. M. BANQUET NOTABLE EVENT

The big meeting of the year of Fayette Council, Royal and Select Masons, No. 100, was held in the Masonic Temple Tuesday afternoon and Tuesday night.

Between thirty and forty candidates from Greenfield, Mt. Sterling, New Holland, Bloomingburg, Jeffersonville, Sedalia and Clerk of Courts E. W. Durflinger, of this city, were initiated.

The Grand Master of the R. & S. Masons, John Bartram, of Marion, honored the occasion with his attendance and was highly eulogistic over the work, in charge of Thrice Illustrious Master George B. Swope.

At six o'clock the ladies of Royal Chapter No. 29, O. E. S., served a banquet that again won most enthusiastic encomiums from the large number of Masons seated around the boards. It was a three course banquet, elaborate in menu and beautifully served.

Blazing candles and garlands of smilax beautified the tables.

The banquet hour was one of supreme social and fraternal pleasure, and after it the work was completed.

MAY WAR ON CATS.

Extermination Is Asked by a Game Protective Association.

Tacoma, Wash.—The domestic cat is doomed if the recommendations adopted by the Pierce county branch of the Washington State Game Protective and Propagation association, at its annual meeting at the Tacoma hotel, is adopted by the Pierce county game commission.

War on tabby was declared because she has turned out to be an enemy of game and a destroyer of wild life.

The association requests the commission to offer a small bounty for each domestic cat killed to further extermination.

The Indiscriminate Phrase.

"What's this?" exclaimed the sensational editor.

"Story about a woman who put a few people to considerable trouble," said the reporter.

"But you haven't identified her."

"We couldn't learn her name."

"What difference does that make?"

Not knowing her name would not prevent you from referring to her as a prominent society woman, would it?"—Spokane Review.
